

Author presentations number I on Tolerance

Anne Birgitta Nilsen, dr. Art. is Associate Professor at the department of International Studies and Interpreting at Oslo and Akershus University College of Applied Sciences. Her research interests include interpreting in public sector services, multilingual communication, extremism and hate speech.

E-mail: Anne-Birgitta.Nilsen@hioa.no

Elisabeth Büttner is a PhD candidate at the Institute for European Studies and the Center for Holocaust Studies at the Jagiellonian University in Cracow, Poland. Her research interests include antisemitism, Polish-Jewish relations during World War II, the history of the Third Reich and the concentration camps system (particularly Auschwitz) as well as the role of contemporary witnesses in the formation of collective memory.

E-mail: elisabeth.buettner@uj.edu.pl

Hans Marius Hansteen, dr.art. is Associate Professor at the Philosophy Department at the University of Bergen, Norway, teaching mainly introductory philosophy and didactics of philosophy. Research interests include social philosophy and political theory, rhetoric and didactics. His publications have social philosophy in the German tradition (from Kant and Hegel, via Marx and Weber to the Frankfurt School) as a focal point.

E-mail: Hans.Hansteen@fof.uib.no

Inger Daae-Qvale is Assistant Professor at the Department of International Studies and Interpreting, Oslo and Akershus University College and applied sciences. Since 1997, she has had a key role in developing, operating and teaching at the multicultural postgraduate studies at the Department. Her research and development activities are directed towards implementation of diversity competence in the professional field.

E-mail: Inger.Daae-Qvale@hioa.no

Jolanta Ambrosewicz-Jacobs, Dr. is the Director of the Center for Holocaust Studies at the Jagiellonian University in Cracow, Poland and a member of the Polish delegation to the International Holocaust Remembrance Alliance (former Task Force for International Cooperation on Holocaust Education, Remembrance and Research). Her academic interests include: collective memory and national identity, empirical studies of attitudes towards Jews, historical narratives, education about the Holocaust in comparative context.

E-mail: jolanta.ambrosewicz-jacobs@uj.edu.pl

Karina Hestad Skeie is Associate Professor at Department for Intercultural Studies, NLA University College in Bergen, Norway. She has published on Norwegian mission and indigenous Christian revival movements in Madagascar, and transnational networks in Norwegian China Missions. Her publications include Building God's Kingdom. Norwegian Missionaries in Highland Madagascar 1866-1903. Leiden: Brill, 2012. Among her research interests are roles of religion in intercultural encounters, gender and religious leadership. She is currently working on Marie Monsen, a Norwegian missionary and revivalist preacher in China.

E-mail: KarinaHestad.Skeie@NLA.no

Kristin Rygg is Associate Professor at the Department of Professional and Intercultural Communication at the Norwegian School of Economics in Bergen, Norway. She specializes in Japanese language and culture, intercultural communication, and linguistics with special attention to socio-pragmatics. Her recent publications include "(in)directness – Distance or proximity?" In Synaps 27 2012, and Direct and Indirect Communicative Styles. A Study in Sociopragmatics and Intercultural Communication. Based on Interview Discourses with Norwegian and Japanese Business Executives (2012). PhD thesis, Bergen: University of Bergen.

E-mail: Kristin.rygg@nhh.no

Line Alice Ytrehus is Professor at Department for Intercultural Studies, NLA University College in Bergen, Norway. She has published books and articles on images of Otherness, research ethics and fundamental research questions in intercultural studies, and on refugees' processes of integration and exclusion in Norway. Her recent research is on intercultural communication in development cooperation between Scandinavian and Bolivian NGOs.

E-mail: LineAlice.Ytrehus@NLA.no

Solveig Moldrheim is Head of Education at Rafto Foundation for Human Rights in Bergen, Norway. As a historian she has published articles on development of stereotypes and images of the other. As a teacher she has been working with youth, human rights education, teacher training and social science didactics since 1999.

E-mail: Solveig.Moldrheim@rafto.no

Terje Ahmad Frostad is a teacher at Frydenberg School in Oslo and a student at Volda University College, Norway. He has studied Sport, Culture and Development studies and history in addition to teacher's college. He is now finishing his master degree in public planning and leadership.

E-mail: frostad22@hotmail.com

Trond Jørgensen is a researcher with a long and varied experience as a teacher and lecturer of human rights and Japanese culture and society. He holds a Masters Degree in Global Studies from The School of Mission and Theology in Stavanger, Norway. His main research foci are the legitimation of human rights and Japanese cultural values. As an Assistant Professor at NLA University College in Bergen, Norway he was in charge of the courses Human Rights in Different Cultural Environments, and Japanese Culture and Society. He has lived in Japan for thirteen years.

Email: trondbox@gmail.com

Ursula G. Småland Goth is Associate Professor in Health Promotion at the Buskerud and Vestfold University College and in Vocational Education Research at the Oslo and Akershus University College of Applied Sciences in Norway. Her previous publications include migration health, health service research, public health and vocational education research. Dr. Goth holds a dual education ensuing a PhD in Community medicine with a focus on migration health and health service research and a Master of Science in Business focusing on management. Dr. Goth's research and working experience originates from Norway, Austria, Rwanda, former Yugoslavia, Israel and the USA.

E-mail: Ursula.Smaaland.Goth@hioa.no