

Author presentations number II on Tolerance

Hildegunn Marie Tønnessen Schuff is Assistant Professor in Psychology and Intercultural Studies at Ansgar University College in Kristiansand, Norway, and a PhD candidate at the Ansgar University College and the Department of Child and Adolescent Mental Health (ABUP) at Sørlandet Hospital. Her research interests include identity development, mental health and living conditions of children and youth with cross-cultural backgrounds, intercultural communication and integration, and the role of creativity and cultural expressions in meaning-making and coping.

E-mail: schuff@ansgarskolen.no

Karina Hestad Skeie is Associate Professor at Department for Intercultural Studies, NLA University College in Bergen, Norway. She has published on Norwegian mission and indigenous Christian revival movements in Madagascar, and transnational networks in Norwegian China Missions. Her publications include Building God's Kingdom. Norwegian Missionaries in Highland Madagascar 1866-1903. Leiden: Brill, 2012. Among her research interests are roles of religion in intercultural encounters, gender and religious leadership. She is currently working on Marie Monsen, a Norwegian missionary and revivalist preacher in China.

E-mail: KarinaHestad.Skeie@NLA.no

Line Alice Ytrehus is Professor at Department for Intercultural Studies, NLA University College in Bergen, Norway. She has published books and articles on images of Otherness, research ethics and fundamental research questions in intercultural studies, and on refugees' processes of integration and exclusion in Norway. Her recent research is on intercultural communication in development cooperation between Scandinavian and Bolivian NGOs.

E-mail: LineAlice.Ytrehus@NLA.no

Ragnhild Ihle is Assistant Professor at the Institute of Social Pedagogy and Social Work at Bergen University College, Norway. She has a key role in developing, operating and teaching at the undergraduate programs in Health and social sciences on subjects like sociology, anthropology, research methods, social policy, intercultural communication and cultural diversity. Her academic interest is on culture and migration and n intercultural encounters in health and social services.

E-mail: Ragnhild.Ihle@hib.no

Tobba Therkildsen Sudmann is Associate Professor and head of the Master's program in Community Work at the Department of Social Education and Social Work, Bergen University College, Norway. Sudmann is a physiotherapist and holds a doctorate i medical sociology. She has published on living with transient and lifelong health concerns, women's health, humour, embarrassment and power in health encounters, and on community work. Her research interests include enabling and constraining conditions for social participation, and how collective action can promote agency and impact on living conditions at large.

E-mail: Tobba.Therkildsen.Sudmann@hib.no

Trond Jørgensen is a researcher with a a long and varied experience as a teacher and lecturer of human rights and Japanese culture and society. He holds a Masters Degree in Global Studies from The School of Mission and Theology in Stavanger, Norway. His main research foci are the legitimation of human rights and Japanese cultural values. As an Assistant Professor at NLA University College in Bergen, Norway he was in charge of the courses Human Rights in Different Cultural Environments, and Japanese Culture and Society. He has lived in Japan for thirteen years.

Email: trondbox@gmail.com